Mandating ABC for ODL students will preserve their academic records

c-Aditya.Wadhawan

The UGC has recently mandated the creation of the Academic Bank of Credits (ABC) for the students enrolled in Online and Distance Learning Courses (ODL). Academicians consider this decision of UGC a crucial step as this will ensure the systematic management of the academic records which becomes difficult as students enrolled in ODL courses often drop a year or more due to various reasons.

- Many incidents have been reported where the mark sheets of such students get misplaced when they return after a gap. In addition to this, students coming after a long gap fail to even upload their assignments. The higher education regulator has directed all the universities offering online programmes to link the Learning Management System (LMS) with the ABC portal.
- ABC is one of the objectives as laid down in the NEP 2020 whose aim is to ensure the interdisciplinary and multidisciplinary academic mobility of students.

Speaking to Education Times, Nageshwar Rao, vice-chancellor, IGNOU, says, "Mandating of ABC account for ODL students is essential as students enrolled in these programmes have relatively lesser contact with their teachers as compared to the regular students. Now the credits that students earn will automatically be accumulated in their ABC account offering academic flexibility, allowing them to pursue any other course of their choice and resume their graduation as and when they want." Drop-out students face problems like loss of mark sheets or inability to upload assignments when they rejoin the course. "ABC will help to manage the records through an efficient system which will streamline the process," says Rao. Till now, 19 lakh students have registered to create an ABC account. Gurpreet Singh, director, Institute of Distance & Online Learning, Chandigarh University, says, "ODL students will be able to simultaneously pursue other courses along with their graduation whose credits will be added in their ABC account."
