Valedictory and Closing ceremony was presided over by Pro. Vice Chancellor and several Honourable Guest of Honour *.

All the resource persons put their most unique art right from their heart in sampled art pieces, demonstration of technique/ process, discussion of all related aspect right from Paper, material, medium, mastery to the Fine art market advice that were part of interactive question and answer session, well-spaced out and related by the participating learners.

Learners were motivated and inspired by the resource persons. This was evident by their regular attendance for the workshop and the submissions of artworks on the concluding day.

Prof. Satyakam Pro Vice Chancellor, IGNOU lauded the efforts put on by all teams involved and has assured all possible support to SOPVA Faculty team that has spear headed this initiative, in perfect synergy with IGNOU's "Blended Mode" of learning practised presently and will be continued in future as well

"SOPVA has been actively involved to engage the learners in distant mode much before the pandemic hit globally, at all streams of education levels. We have conducted workshop in offline as well as online mode to add value to the existing and alumni students.", shared Dr Govindaraju Bhardwaza, Director SOPVA, IGNOU.

All the Resource persons expressed their gratitude on being a part of this initiative. *Honoured guests also said that such workshops should be held in future as well. As they hold BIG promise not only to the learners to help build their skills but to escalate the overall level of academic exposure that industry can provide with hands-on mutual effort leading to success. Learners enrolled gave a very enthusiastic response and are already enquiring for next workshop that SOPVA would likely be planning.
